AUCC Advocate for higher education

The Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada has represented Canada's universities since 1911. We influence public policy by sharing expertise, information and the perspectives of our members with government, industry and community leaders. Our advocacy ensures that higher education is recognized as vital to Canada's prosperity and quality of life as a knowledge-based society and economy.

We are a non-governmental and not-for-profit group, funded through membership fees and revenues from contract management services and publications. Our priorities include: better public understanding and support for higher education; improved funding for Canada's universities; enhanced support for research innovation; and increased internationalization of higher education in Canada.

We also work toward intellectual property policies that allow university education and scholarship to flourish and student aid policies that help provide equitable access to education across Canada.

To foster broad support for higher education, the AUCC: promotes dialogue with policy makers in Canada; builds partnerships with local, national, and international organizations; and publishes studies on current and emerging trends and issues confronting universities. AUCC provides services to member universities in three main areas: public policy and advocacy; communications, research and information sharing; and scholarships and international programs.

Each member university of AUCC is represented by its executive head. The association's business is conducted by a board of directors, made up of 12 university presidents and the president of AUCC. The activities of the association are coordinated by our Secretariat, located in Ottawa.

AUCC Porte-parole des universités canadiennes

L'Association des universités et collèges du Canada représente les universités canadiennes depuis 1911. Elle exerce une influence sur la politique publique en informant le gouvernement, le secteur privé et les dirigeants communautaires et en mettant à leur disposition l'expertise et le point de vue de ses membres. Elle s'emploie à faire la promotion de l'enseignement supérieur afin qu'il soit considéré comme élément essentiel pour la prospérité et la qualité de vie au Canada, une société dont l'économie est axée sur le savoir.

Organisme non gouvernemental, à but non lucratif, financé par les cotisations de ses membres et les recettes provenant de la gestion de contrats et des publications, l'AUCC s'est fixée comme priorités : d'améliorer la compréhension et l'appui de la population envers l'enseignement supérieur; d'augmenter le financement des universités canadiennes; d'accroître l'appui à l'innovation en matière de recherche; d'intensifier l'internationalisation de l'enseignement supérieur au Canada.

L'AUCC s'intéresse également aux politiques liées à la propriété intellectuelle qui favorisent l'épanouissement de l'enseignement universitaire et de l'activité savante ainsi qu'aux politiques d'aide aux étudiants qui contribuent à fournir un accès équitable à l'éducation partout au Canada.

Afin de favoriser un vaste appui à l'enseignement supérieur, l'AUCC s'affaire à instaurer un dialogue avec les décideurs canadiens; à établir des partenariats avec des organisations locales, nationales et internationales; à publier des études sur les tendances actuelles et émergentes que connaissent les universités. L'AUCC offre aux universités membres des services dans trois sphères principales : la politique publique et la promotion d'intérêts; les communications, la recherche et la diffusion d'information; les boursés d'études et les programmes internationaux.

Chaque université membre de l'AUCC est représentée par son chef d'établissement. Un conseil d'administration, composé de 12 recteurs ainsi que de la présidente-directrice générale, assure la direction de l'AUCC dont les activités sont coordonnées par son secrétariat situé à Ottawa.

Note: This list reflects the official names of AUCC member institutions, as set out in the legislation under which each university operates. In some cases, universities have chosen to use a variation of these names for informal or promotional purposes. In those instances, you will find these names in brackets following the official name.

Cette liste énumère les noms officiels des établissements membres de l'AUCC tels qu'ils sont indiqués par la loi qui régit chacune des universités. Dans certains cas, les universités ont choisi d'utiliser une variante non officielle de leur nom pour des raisons de promotion. Le cas échéant, ces noms se trouvent entre parenthèses à côté du nom officiel.

What's the value of university research?

Since 1997, the federal government has invested $11 billion in university research. That's a laudable investment in knowledge creation. But politicians and policymakers want to know what they're paying for. Canadians deserve to know how this investment is benefiting them.

Canadian universities are increasingly and energetically addressing the need to communicate the value of university research. As part of this effort, the AUCC has published Momentum: The 2005 report on university research and knowledge transfer. It is the first public report on the collective efforts of universities to contribute to the country's social and economic well-being. Momentum will begin to draw the all-important link between research performance and benefits to Canadians in areas including health, environment, culture, cities, government and the economy.
